

Sustainable Supply Chain Foundation Announces Formation of its Advisory Board

January 31, 2013 — The Sustainable Supply Chain Foundation is pleased to announce the formation of its Advisory Board. This Board will provide expertise and guidance, as well as professional support regarding the activities of The Foundation.

The Foundation welcomes Stephen Cox and Michael Cavanaugh to the board. Stephen is a supply chain executive with over 40 years of expertise in efficient manufacturing operations, strategic manufacturing restructuring projects, environmental systems, cost reduction and supply chain logistics. Michael has a long term background in rail and ocean shipping and intermodal transport. Mike advises several Fortune 500 logistics firms on global regulatory and transactional matters.

##

About SSCF

The SSCF provides consultation and independent verification services for supply chain sustainability programs; and conducts research related to sustainability in global and domestic supply chain and transportation-related industries. It works to identify and assess best practices and emerging technologies that advance sustainability in every aspect of supply chain management.

For more information contact: Rickard K. Bank, Sustainable Supply Chain Foundation, 202.375.3269, rbank@sustainable-scf.org.